Intelligent tourism.

ITALYVISION aims to encourage informed tourism and to increase familiarity with Italian art by providing visitors with a rich cultural resource as well as all the practical information that they need to get the most out of their time in Rome, Naples, Florence or Venice, and in many other centres of cultural activity.

A magazine that is twice as useful.

The magazine is divided into two parts, the first of which is more specialist in nature, containing articles on historical monuments and places of cultural interest, as well as suggesting destinations that are not on the usual tourist itineraries. This part of the magazine hosts contributions by famous art historians, architects and archaeologists, under the guidance of a prestigious editorial committee.

The second part contains details of current exhibitions, festivals and informations regarding transport, restaurants, shopping and accommodation, including the opening hours and addresses of the most interesting museums and galleries. This more practical section of the magazine makes a large number of suggestions regarding the most noteworthy churches and monuments to be visited, along with the addresses and opening hours of historical archives and private galleries. Finally, the magazine provides a wealth of accessible information for the tourist, ranging from the addresses of restaurants, wine bars, embassies and tourist offices to useful contact numbers.
